Found 8 miles, S.W. of Oberlin on Gore Orphanage Rd., Camden Bog was purchased by Oberlin College in July of 1991. This area contains one of the last remaining peat bogs in Ohio and is home to a number of endangered and threatened species. The bog has been severely degraded by hunting, agricultural run-off, logging and drainage. By making the area a protected nature preserve, the College hopes to take the bog back to a more natural state. The site will be used for biological research and environmental education.

Progress for the Yeomen cannot be measured in wins and losses but in the 100 percent effort each and every player gave on the playing field. The heart and soul of this team was its defense, led by Joe Martin, Mike Laposky, Tim Russell and Dan Ash. These brave souls slowed down and stopped the many larger and more talented teams they faced, especially in the first five games of the year. If more players can be recruited in the off-season, the Yeomen will see their superlative efforts translated into wins.
